A Day at the Beach

Mia and her dad went to the beach on a warm Saturday morning. The sand felt soft under Mia's feet. She carried a red bucket, a small spade and a sunhat with yellow flowers on it.

First, Mia built a sandcastle near the shore. Her dad helped her dig a moat around it. Then a wave came closer and filled the moat with water. Mia laughed, but she moved her castle a little higher on the sand.

After lunch, Mia saw a plastic wrapper near the rocks. She picked it up carefully and put it in the bin. Dad said, 'That helps keep the beach safe for birds and sea animals.'

Before they went home, Mia looked back at the sparkling water. She felt tired, sandy and happy.
