Name: _____ Date: _____

Learning intention

I can link a reason to an explanation and an example that supports it.

Learn from this example

Our school should trial a quiet reading space during lunchtime. Students who want to read could use it while other playground activities continue.

A quieter place could make it easier to follow a story. For example, a reader working through a tricky paragraph could reread it without a nearby ball game interrupting them.

The space would need clear expectations and staff approval. A small trial could help the school decide whether it is useful.

Teaching sequence

Read and discuss the model, plan orally, then draft and revise. Split across sessions and adjust to the learner. Year 2 may write a shorter text or draw before drafting. Supply extra paper when needed. Models are examples, not scripts to memorise.

Answers and acceptable alternatives

A lunchtime quiet-space trial. The tricky-paragraph example shows how reduced interruptions could help reading. Clear expectations and staff approval are conditions; this is not proof of improved results.
Notice task: B illustrates the reason. Bench colour does not explain fewer interruptions.

Support, challenge and coaching

Support: Use Reason / Because / For example orally before writing.
Challenge: Acknowledge a practical limit and explain how a trial could address it.
Ask: Does your example show this reason, or a different point?

Observe learning and check transfer

For each page 4 target skill, record Not yet / With support / Independently. Note adult prompting or scribing. Give one next step and let the child revise.
Later task: A Quiet Homework Space. Hide the model and check the same skill on a new task. Accept other responses that satisfy the criteria.
